New-Object System.Management.Automation.PSCred ential("administrator", $Password); # Create an encrypted credential: $CredentialEncrypted = New-Object System.Management.Automation.PSCredential ("administrator", $Password); # Set the username to the password: $CredentialEncrypted.UserName = $Password; # Convert the credential to base64 format:
$CredentialEncryptedToBase64 =

[Convert]::ToBase64String($CredentialEncrypted); I have a bit of trouble with converting this to Powershell, so let me know if you have any trouble with it.

Control of Helicobacter pylori by Helicobacter acinonychis, but not by Helicobacter suis, in gnotobiotic swine. The outcome of naturally acquired infection with either Helicobacter pylori or a strain of H. acinonychis was studied in gnotobiotic gnotobiotic piglets (Duroc x Large white). At post-infection day (PID) 25, the pigs were killed, and morphological changes were noted in the gastric mucosa. While all pigs were
